NEW YORK—The television version of “Information Please” which begins this week (Sunday, June 29) will feature the same regular panelists as when the stunt was a radio feature. Clifton Fadiman will rotate as emcee while old standbys John Kieran and Franklin P. Adams will answer the toughies with a guest panelist filling in each week. Such names as Gregory Ratoff, James Michener and Fred Allen will guest star. A skit ribbing Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra might be the cause of a law suit for Milton Berle. Unca’ Millie made havoc of Spitalny’s femmes on a recent Star Theater telecast, using among other things, a takeoff on “Evelyn and her Tragic Violin.” Although the sketch was scissored for future kinescoping to 17 cities, Spitalny may still sue.

Was it just the warm weather or was Lawrence Spivak really hot under the collar when a panelist on Keep Posted twice quoted Colliers magazine on the Saturday Evening Post-sponsored program? Moderator Spivak, who winced noticeably once, did the only thing and kept reasonably cool. Western balladeer and folk singer Eddy Arnold is taking over for Perry Como when the crooner takes off on a six week hiatus. Eddy will operate with his own trio, a house orchestra and guest stars.

Due to debut on her own TV stanza next Fall is bombastic, indefatigable Betty Hutton. The blonde bombshell is spending the Summer unwinding the knots in her legs since performing on the trapeze in the spectacular DeMille flicker, “The Greatest Show On Earth.”

There’s rumbling that some of the newspaper fraternity assigned to interview politicos on such programs as “Meet the Press” and “Keep Posted” are nettled at the fact they don’t receive credit for plying valuable information from guests. Also, the daily papers are taking an alarmed view of the scoops that TV is pulling regularly—leaving the press to print warmed-over versions of the same story. Jane Nigh, who plays the saucy Lorelei Kilbourne, Girl Friday to Steve Wilson on “Big Town,” defines “supervision” as something that men have on windy corners when the girls ankle by.

Claudia, the sometimes insufferable young bride, has just been cancelled by its sponsor. Same sponsor also axed “Young Mr. Bobbin” and “It’s News to Me.” Sealy Mattresses of eye catching signboard fame, are taking the TV plunge with a program with the well-intentioned title “Balance Your Budget.” It’ll be on in the fall. Memo to Herb Shriner: On your next video appearance, ol’ Hoosier, be sure it’s a simple little show. Your Comedy Hour debut was smothered in choreography, props and big settings. Cracker barrels and marble TV staircases don’t mix.

Twelve year-old Bruce Lindgren, the ever-inquisitive side kick of Mr. Wizard (Don Herbert), thinks someone should invent a revolving bowl for tired goldfish. To keep abreast of Convention doings on television (and who won’t be watching with great interest the history making events?) be sure to reserve your copy of TV Forecast’s special convention issue next week. It’ll serve as an informative, handy guide to the political doings in Chicago.

Her Tender Torching Outclasses the Field

"Just a tune at the start
But it soon is a hymn to your grace."

Those lyrics, borrowed from Rodgers' & Hart's wonderful old "With a Song in My Heart" capture perfectly the spell cast over us ordinary mortals by that celestial being named Jane Froman—our choice as the top female singer on TV, or anywhere else for that matter. Jane's tender, soulful torching outclasses the field and puts her at the top of our list of TV's top five over such strong contenders as Dinah Shore (No. 2), Dorothy Collins (No. 3), Lena Horne (No. 4) and Janette Davis (No. 5).

The soaring Froman voice, a rich, pulsating contralto, was the private property of a small clique of connoisseurs who had caught her act in night clubs, but TV appearances and a movie biography have brought the general public around.

The movie, appropriately titled "With a Song in My Heart" after a song that Jane has made her own, has packed theaters across the U. S. and rightly so. One of the first entertainers to go overseas in World War II, Jane barely escaped death in March, 1943 when the plane she was in crashed near Lisbon, Portugal. After a long spell recovering, which included 26 painful leg operations, she started on the long comeback trail. Five years after the crash she married Captain John Burn, the pilot of the plane and the man who had saved her life by fishing her out of the water.

The movie, a blend of these facts and a little Hollywood fantasy, turned out to be one of the great tearjerkers of all time. But not even Hollywood could distort the courageous and stirring story of a girl, near death, coming back to become perhaps the best popular singer of our time.

For Jane has converted popular singing into an art form. Working with the best in popular music (Kern, Gershwin, Porter, Berlin, Rodgers) she lavishes dignity, warmth and understanding onto lyrics that are usually tossed off as so much dross by other singers.

Punctuating the lyrics in the right places she builds a song into a climax that becomes something precious and often profound. Her voice has an almost operatic timbre, with depth, range and power.

As a memento of that plane crash, Jane still wears a brace on her leg, but otherwise she's sound. That crash, bad as it was, has brought Jane to the attention of a public sated with a string of insipid singers. Billed as "The First Lady of Song" Jane lives up to the title. She has survived disaster and risen to the top, always with a song in her heart.
THE slow but persistent drift of Chicago talent to the fleshepots of Hollywood and New York has stepped up to an alarming rate in recent years. Young talented Chicagoans leave at the first opportunity and the town has gained a notorious reputation for being unwilling to support its own. One Chicagoan still willing to stand and fight this sad trend is a ham-handed piano player named Chet Roble.

Uncle Chet has become almost a local institution. For years his flashy little trio was one of Chicago's top nitery draws. They called their music "Barefoot Jazz," a fanciful name for the tough, tender piano style invented by Chet. Featured in the trio also was an alto saxophone player named Boyce Brown, who looked to be in an advanced stage of decay, but played just about the most soulful alto in the business. Chicagoans grew to love the Chet Roble Trio.

When TV came along, Chet jumped in, barefeet first. The trio, as most jazz combos do, drifted apart. He did a single on various TV shows, none of them particularly successful, rating-wise. His piano playing and singing (a voice reminiscent of trombone giant Jack Teagarden) were just as colorful as ever but apathetic Chicagoans seemed to prefer the big brassy shows out of New York.

When another Chicagoan, Studs Terkel, who had gained a small but fanatic audience with a disc jockey radio show called the "Wax Museum," came along with a new show called "Studs' Place," he figured Chet to be a perfect choice for the part of the piano player on the show. And the choice was perfect, for Chet turned out to be a convincing actor along with handling his usual piano chores.

The show "Studs' Place" was one of the most inventive and ingratiating TV programs ever devised. Located in a non-existent hashhouse, it revolved around the thorny little problems of four fumbling but kindhearted people (Chet, Studs, guitar-strumming Win Stracke and waitress Grace, played by Bev Younger.)

The show was promptly cheered at its debut by critics, but before it ever got off the ground it ran into trouble. "Sure, we had a great show. But what did they do with us? They threw us up against the Friday night fights," complained Chet. "The same people that like our show also like boxing and that left us out in the cold." Several time switches have since been made in attempts to save the show, but each time it was up against a top-rated show. A few weeks back, the final telecast for the year of "Studs' Place" was cancelled by the sponsor. Studs’ hashhouse may have closed forever.

Chet pegs the “Studs’ Place” fan as one who wants to be a part of the group down at the hashhouse. “Anybody watching the show for three straight weeks was hooked. The viewer is no longer in his living room, but down at Studs’”. The number of people hooked was a loyal corps, but it wasn’t enough.

Chet still doesn’t have to play the starving musician. He’s co-star with Mary Hartline on a lively little kids show on WENR-TV and he’s also featured pianist on “Challenge,” the Actor’s Club show on WGN-TV. His new recording of “Ace in The Hole” is getting a lot of action over record counters. And anyone lucky enough to get an elbow up on the piano at the plush Piano Bar in the Hotel Sherman can hear Uncle Chet play the kind of piano the rest of us play in our dreams.

The emergence of Chet as an actor is just another revelation of the many-sided Roble personality. For he’s transcended the music field and become one of those strange and wonderful things—a show biz character. A free but sensitive spirit, he loves the show world and the people in it.

Any phase of the business is likely to get a Roble comment. He suffers for other entertainers whose act isn’t going over. He tries to catch practically all the acts, major and minor, that hit town. And unlike many of his cold-blooded competitors, Chet is a man with a soul. Typical of his sensitivity was his response to the great Ethel Waters when she appeared last fall in “The Member of the Wedding.” Miss Waters’ incredibly touching performance found sentimentalist Roble dabbing at his teardrenched eyes.

Uncle Chet is a product of Chicago’s Northwest Side, where he attended Schurz High. After attending the U. of Illinois, he spent long spells on the road, building his musical reputation. But always he’d return to Chicago and always localites were glad to have him. He’s one Chicagoan who has captured the fancy of the usually indifferent locals.

It’s for this reason that Chet mourns the departure of many other Chicagoans with perhaps equal or more talent. It’s his claim that there’s enough talent right here in town to match anything New York or Hollywood can offer. But in Chicago, talent isn’t enough. So the smart ones either pack up and leave or (Continued on page 28)

BANANA CREAM PIE

Television, still in its infancy, has given birth to a host of revolutionary ideas. Not the least of these TV brainstorms are cooking schools headed by capable chefs of long years' experience.

Today's bride can learn the tastiest way to her man's heart merely by observing the TV experts. And prominent among Chicago gourmets is Francois Pope who has maintained a steady high rating on the morning side of the TV ledger. He is being groomed now for a network debut. According to WBKB chieftains, Pope's "Creative Cookery" is destined to cut into the coaxial cable in the near future.

On the threshold of his latest success, this Chicago chef has chosen the three top favorites among his recipe collection. With this Pope variation on banana cream pie, TV Forecast launches his trio of favorites. Watch for numbers 2 and 3 in successive issues.

FRENCH CREAM FILLING FOR BANANA CREAM PIE

- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 tsp. butter
- 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 egg yolks combined with 3/4 cup cold milk
- 3 tbsp. cornstarch
- 3 cups warm milk
- Pinch of salt
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla

Mix sugar, flour, cornstarch & salt. Beat egg yolks slightly & combine with the 3/4 cup cold milk. Add to dry ingredients to form a smooth paste. Add warm milk slowly & cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Cook about 5 minutes after it thickens. Add butter and when cool, add vanilla. A little yellow coloring may be added.

Let filling stand in room temperature until cool, but beat often to prevent crust from forming. If filling appears too stiff when cool, add more cold milk or cream until of proper consistence. Beat thoroughly with spoon or egg beater until smooth. When cool, cover and keep in refrigerator at least 2 hours before using.

LARGE PIE SHELL
(FOR PIE PLATE 10 1/2 x 1 1/2 INCHES)
1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt (increase to 3/4 tsp. if using all lard or vegetable shortening)
4 tbsps. butter & 4 tbsps. lard or vegetable shortening or 8 tbsps. lard or 8 tbsps. shortening
About 4 or 5 tbsps. cold milk or ice water

Have shortening cold and firm, but not too hard. Sift flour, baking powder & salt together several times. With pie blender cut cold shortening into dry ingredients until it looks like coarse meal. Gradually add cold milk or water, working liquid into dry ingredients thoroughly with a knife, using pressure, until it leaves sides of bowl. Do not use more than 5 tbsps. of liquid and not less than 4. Turn dough out onto floured covered board and knead only few seconds to hold mixture together.

Wrap in wax paper and place in refrigerator for about 1/2 hour. Do not allow dough to become too hard. Dough may be used at once, if desired.

When ready to bake, roll to measure about 13 inches round. Put another greased plate of same size over it. Bake in 400° F. oven about 20 minutes. Remove top plate and bake at 350° F. about 12-15 more minutes or until golden brown. If dough has been stored in refrigerator until too firm to roll, let stand wrapped in wax paper in room temperature until pliable—15 or 20 minutes. Makes 1 large thick shell.

HOW TO PREPARE BANANA CREAM PIE
Bake large pie shell. Prepare French cream filling. Allow cream filling to chill for several hours before using. When filling is absolutely cold, place in large baked pie shell. Slice 3 to 4 bananas about 1/4 inch thick and distribute evenly on top. Beat 1 pint of whipping cream until stiff after adding 1/4 cup sifted confectioners sugar. Spread 3/4 whipped cream on top of bananas. Put other 3/4 in plastic lined bag with No. 3 or 7 star tin tube and decorate as desired.

Banana Cream Pie can be decorated with whipped cream and placed in refrigerator several hours before serving.
Here are Paul MacAlister's tips for proper placement of your TV set:

1. For summer viewing, place TV set on a screened-in porch. Or view your favorite programs through a window opening onto the porch. (If your TV set is mounted on a swivel base, it can be wheeled around to face the window and the viewers.)

2. If your living room is small, a symmetrical arrangement is desirable, because it provides more viewing space. The MacAlisters have a couch facing their TV screen with 4 chairs strategically placed to flank the set. The arrangement is flexible and allows for placement of more chairs when additional guests arrive.

3. Indoors or outdoors, use muted or soft lighting on the same level with the TV set. For easy-on-the-eye results, place lamps adjacent to the set, either to left or right. Avoid abrupt contrasts between dark screen and light room or vice versa.

4. A TV dining cart is an indispensable item for dinner-time viewing and end or tray tables placed conveniently are fine for munching snacks.

MacAlister suggests two rules to follow when deciding the most suitable spot for your TV set: (1) Decide upon a fairly comfortable permanent viewing place, and (2) Provide for plenty of flexibility in the room to allow for additional seating.

paul macalister gives tips to video owners

WHEN Martin Eden was pursuing his adventurous journeys up and down the seven seas, little did he know he would inspire a 20th century architect to follow his roamings.

Back in the 1920’s a mild-mannered chap with a bumper crop of freckles became the first student to earn a degree in “Interior Architecture” from the Yale School of Architecture. Today he’s a TV interior decorator.

Instead of burying himself in a stuffy office, Paul MacAlister decided to broaden his scope of knowledge through travel. His adventurous roamings led to a spotty career with the bulk of interest on designing—everything from homes, furniture and textiles to ship interiors, women’s dresses and hardware.

Shortly after graduation, Paul signed as first mate on a French freighter bound for North Africa. A job with the local French paper there as reporter-cartoonist netted him enough to migrate to Paris. There he served as guide for visiting Americans while taking art courses at the Ecole des Beaux Arts at Fontainebleau.

When his thirst for French atmosphere had been quenched, Mac returned to New York with $1,200 earned in Paris as a dress designer. Brushing off the seeds of wanderlust, he confined himself to desk work in his own design firm where he decorated executive offices and designed yacht interiors.

Before World War II, MacAlister produced the first TV shows on home furnishings in New York. But the Japs squelched any serious pursuit of his career and he joined the navy as a commander in charge of radar production.

With the Nipponese surrender came Mac’s return to New York where he designed and managed U. S. Navy exhibitions. Later he moved to Chicago to open his own design office and become a home furnishing consultant.

When WNBQ was seeking an interior decorator for its “Good Living” series, Mac was ferreted out from his barrage of tools, sketches and plans. Since April he has been conducting “Rooms For Improvement” with his assistant, Flo-lydia Etting.

Paul MacAlister is seen at 11:30 a.m. Tuesdays over WNBQ (channel 5).
Who's The Real Star of “My Friend Irma”?

THE dumb blonde, like the vanishing buffalo, is an item that no insurance company would feel quite safe in backing. Apparently the commodity of a platinum hare-brain is at first fascinating, then tolerable, finally downright exasperating. Behemoth Dagmar is a case in mind. Everybody is familiar with the spectacular and meteoric rise and fall of the bumptious Dag. Maybe she just didn’t have the talent. Then again, maybe viewers have become fed up with dumb blondes.

Dag’s successor to the fleeting title of queen of the TV female dummies is another stacked gal named Marie Wilson. Marie portrays the monumentally stupid secretary Irma Peterson in the comedy series, “My Friend Irma.” No creature, blonde, brunette or bald, could be as asinine as Irma. She’s been prancing about playing a vacuum head for so long—confusing her boy friend Al (who is almost as dumb), her roommate Jane and her boss—that her living room presence is getting tiresome and unpalatable.

Dagmar, dumb as she was, still was a pretty canny woman. Claudia occasionally shows sparks of level headed thinking. And Lucy pulls off as many clever plots as bumbling ones. Irma, however, remains constant. She has all the intelligence of an arrested adolescent.

If Irma, like other female dunces, is slipping, what then is holding her show up in the top ten so consistently? Judging from fan letters received in our office, the answer lies in a girl named Cathy Lewis who plays Irma’s long-suffering roommate, Jane Stacey.

Jane, of course, has got the audience on her side. She’s such an average, good sport of a woman, patient as a kindergarten teacher—yet with the likeable flipness of a typical New York office girl—that you can’t help but take to her.

To many viewers she’s actually a lot funnier than roommate Irma. Irma is “funny” because she doesn’t see through things. Jane does. She throws off a line like she owned it, usually with a clever sarcastic twist about the plight of poor Irma.

Aside from character delineations that make her part a more popular one than Irma’s, Cathy Lewis ranks as one of the real skillful actreeses on TV. So skillful, in fact, she’s pulling off one of the great week-by-week scene stealing operations in the medium.

Last Call For Miss Video Venus

This is the last week for entrants in the search for Miss Video Venus, co-sponsored by TV Forecast and station WBKB. Any unmarried girl between the ages of 15 and 30 years is eligible. Beauty is the only factor—not talent.

If you would like to be Miss Video Venus, simply fill out the entry blank on this page, attach a clear, recent bathing suit picture of yourself and mail it in. The first eliminations will be decided on the basis of the pictures submitted. Deadline is July 7.

Miss Video Venus will not only have a chance at fame and fortune (including a regular TV audition by WBKB), but will win a flock of glamorous prizes. They include:

A choice of vacations at the famous Shinderman resorts of Nippersink or Oakton Manor, an expense-free week for 2.

A luxurious Persian lamb cape-stole valued at $300, donated by Willard-Raymond Furs of 190 N. State street.

A complete course of modeling and charm by the famed Sabie Models Unlimited of 203 N. Wabash avenue.

A complete day of beauty at Helena Rubinstein's world famous beauty salon at 666 N. Michigan avenue, plus a complete individualized make-up kit with the personal direction of beauty authority Madame Houle.

Other prizes will be announced in future issues. Enter now. Watch TV Forecast for more contest details.

Nippersink's famous "pool in a lake." Winner has her choice of vacation at Nippersink or Oakton Manor. Both are top Wisconsin summer resorts.

The game room at Oakton Manor (Pewaukee, Wis), where winner can spend a full week vacation for two at no expense.

The beautiful Sentinel console TV set, one of the many first prizes in the contest.

LETTERS to the editor

Bess Myerson & Randy Merriman are most repulsive. They are too suggestive in actions and remarks. Randy asks such personal questions and shows favoritism.

Wilmette, Ill.  MRS. HENRY J. BARBOUR

Couldn’t we have a series of good old fashioned Sherlock Holmes mysteries on TV?

Chicago, Ill.  MRS. LUCILLE ANDERSON

Bert Parks’ afternoon program is sickening. Give us some decent afternoon programs, not old men trying to act like crooners. Jack Mabley’s page is swell.

Hammond, Ind.  MRS. PEGGY LUNDERWOLE

I’m very pleased to hear that Al Morgan is going to try a comeback. I certainly enjoyed his piano artistry. There should be more ARTISTS instead of so many amateurs on TV.

Crown Point, Indiana  MRS. JOYCE FLETCHER

As much as I like Lena Horne, your cover on her was a disgrace to women. A little more dress would be twice as charming.

Bradley, Ill.  ADELE SPENARD

... Arturo Toscanini is not to be laughed at. For a man of eighty he has a lot of integrity and ambition.

Hammond, Ind.  MEREDITH SCHULTZ

You said “Creative Cookery” has been sold out to sponsors since it started. You’re telling us. We’re so fed up with the commercials on that show that we don’t care if we find out how to make hors d’oeuvres.

Chicago, Ill.  MARGARET O’SHAUGHNESSY

That electrolux cleaner used on TV will be worn out on those longwinded commercials and won’t be good for actual cleaning. Also a little more power when the movies are shown and less for the commercials would be deeply appreciated.

Etna Green, Ind.  MRS. O. D. CLEVELAND

Jewell Riggs who wrote in saying that she’d like to scratch Johnnie Ray’s bride’s eyes out was wrong. At least I don’t feel that way. But I do hope that Marilyn treats Johnnie right cause that’s what he deserves.

Waukegan, Ill.  KAY ROBINSON

You people really missed the boat picking Eddie Fisher as number one male singer. Johnnie Ray is far superior.

Joliet, Ill.  MARY MARTIN

TV FORECAST
DEAR BOSS:
The Gillette razor folks couldn't have been quite as sharp as their blades when they scheduled that cartoon commercial in the Walcott-Charles fight telecast. With a tremendous audience of Negroes watching the fight (and, I presume, the commercials) what did the sponsor do but toss in an animated cartoon featuring a caricature of a Negro porter complete with the exaggerated facial features and the usual distortions of manner that certainly must irritate lots of folks—some whose beards grow on dark skins; some whose whiskers must be shaved from white skin.

Well, it had to happen.

Yes, McCarthy had to fall in love! Take back your Laraine Days, your Carmelita Popes, your Mary Hartlines—I got me a gal that's really terrific. Name of Ruth Lyons. Has a show outa Cincinnati called Ruth Lyons' Fifty Club. Well I tell you friend, she's got those de-liciously curving ad libs, the most revealing repartee, the... well for once, words fail me.

Ever notice how everyone is always so happy to be on TV? The plumber doesn't throw his arms around you when he comes to clean out the sump. He's working at his job just like Eloise McElhone or Paul Dixon or the rest of the TV Happiness Kids.

After all, they are getting paid to entertain. Of course it's nice to smile and show the teeth—but I get a little tired of hearing, all evening long, how terribly, terribly happy I've made my TV "friends" by just simply tuning in a channel here and there. If they only knew—sometimes they get into my living room 'cause I'm too lazy to switch dials. CHUB

Barefoot Jazzman

Portrait of an artist in repose as Chet Roble stores idly off into space while noodling over the keys.

else find other means of making a living.

The high-caliber Roble character comes out best, of course, when he's manufacturing music. A staunch fan of all phases of music, he finds a Sinatra or a Horowitz equally stimulating. What he calls in his own music "barefoot" actually comes closest to the New Orleans blues tradition, with plenty of influence from the swing era of the late thirties.

No concert pianist, Chet can still dash off a middle-low brow "Warsaw Concerto," but he'd rather not. His fertile imagination works best on fine old jazz standards that emerge, after he works them over, as something splendidly vital and lowdown. Pitching in with his gravel voice on sturdy "Basin St. Blues" he evokes an image of an earlier and more primitive music born of the squalid slums of New Orleans. His idle fingering of chords in a minor key is a perfect accompaniment for a brooding listener. And when the mood is upon him, he can play much more ferocious jazz of the "Stompin' at the Savoy" variety.

The crew-cut Chet is sporting these days a tipoff on his casual attitude toward life. One of his most requested songs, "Free and Easy," has a line that could be called the Roble philosophy—"any place I hang my hat is home." Chet's official residence is on Chicago's North side and is shared by his wife Virginia and daughter Terry.

No financial problems cloud the Roble future, but September holds the answer to a pretty important question for Uncle Chet. At that time the fall TV lineups will be set and he's wondering if "Studs' Place" will be in the lineup.

Like the devoted fans of Studs', Chet has become strongly attached to that hashhouse. And if another quality show like Studs' dies, it could start some more talented Chicagoans to packing those bags. But it's a pretty safe bet, that either way, Uncle Chet will still be with us.

—Robert Cunniff

Chet Roble can be seen on "Mary Hartline's Party" on channel 7 (WENR-TV) at 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday and on "Challenge," channel 9 (WGN-TV) at 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

TV FORECAST
DOCTORS COLLECT STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

by JACK MABLEY

Forecast readers are chock full of ideas and some have been kind enough to forward them to this column. Here are some thoughts from recent letters:

"Two nights now I have looked all through the listings of TV, saw a couple of my favorites, and finally settled for F.M."

(The ratings show that more and more viewers are doing as you do. A perfect example of selective viewing came a couple of weeks ago. From 8:30 to 9 NBC carried a fascinating show from the Medical Association convention, with pictures of an operation in progress. The show was preceded by Berle, followed by an amateur show. Both seemed utterly ridiculous when put beside this great public service program. But if I had seen nothing more than that operation in the entire week, I would have been a satisfied set owner.)

"I would surely put Kukla, Fran and Ollie back on their half hour."

(They're going back on their half hour, but on Sunday afternoon instead of Monday through Friday. This is what the NBC moguls regard as "progress." It's the same kind of progress that deprives us of Studs' Place.)

"The Waring Show looks so decent, high grade, well educated, and happy."

(It is suggested you let the sponsors know that if you want to continue seeing the Warings. A quiet survey is being made to determine whether to retain the show.)

"I would have Clint Youle say 'Good evening' at the start of his program instead of a nonchalant 'Hi.'"

(Forty thousand TV performers say good evening and have ratings of 1 to 5 or 7 or 8. Clint Youle says Hi and enjoys a rating of 15 to 20. People must like Hi.)

"Celanese Theater vs. boxing on Wednesday nights is the biggest conflict in our family. I just silently pray the fight will end in the third round so I can watch at least half the play."

(Our days of frustration are at an end. Next fall Celanese plans to move to a new time to avoid the boxing conflict.)

"Why don't they abolish the razzle-dazzle film commercials for sheep oil and assorted greases?"

(I'm afraid we'll always be afflicted with cheap stations which tolerate these blatant commercials. The one thing that will put them out of business is being ignored, so take your cue from there.)

"Red Skelton, to me, is ridiculous. How can he be given honors over Sid Caesar, who has a remarkable sensitivity and feeling for humor."

(Most viewers like them both. I think both are as great as any comedians in television. But back in the days of vaudeville, the most ardent fans would see great comedians two or three times a year at the most. Their stature grew with the years. I'm still convinced that seeing them every week on television produces the same condition as eating a banana split after every meal. You soon get awfully tired of banana splits.)

"Permanently throttle viewers who write to TV columnists suggesting that if their fellow men don't approve a program they twist a dial. How else is a program to gauge its listeners' reactions?"

(Amen.)

CHICAGO—Now that Chicago Unlimited has started its job of trying to interest midwest advertisers in buying their TV & radio programs here rather than in New York and Hollywood, here’s a little free advice for their promotion boys:

Butter up the right people—some of the TV editors are missed because they weren’t pre-informed of developments. As a result, they’re cutting their own throats by refusing to mention the project in their pillars.

Find out why some of the big agency boys here, while giving lots of lip service to Chicago talent, are secretly recommending Gotham shows to their clients.

Tiptoe softly thru Apathy Canyon (otherwise known as State Street) lest you wake the dead.

Ask why chomp & chaw tycoon Phil Wrigley, long touted as a Chicago Firster, won’t buy a hometown product in radio or TV.

Ask why TV-man Bill Irvin of the Sun-Times, who seldom wrote about Chicago programs, suddenly leaped into the battle with a series of blasts at New York network bosses.

Inquire if it’s true that Jules Montenier of Stopette company, who bankrolls N. Y.’s What’s My Line?, refuses to buy Chicago’s Down You Go show because “it’s too intelligent for his customers.”

Find out how many Chicago network shows have been tossed into poor time slots on direct orders of Gotham network bosses.

Ask why Illinois Senators Everett Dirksen and Paul Douglas have been sitting on their hands while Our Town’s TV-radio empire crumbles away. Or are their presidential ambitions interfering with their jobs?

Glad to report that comic Bill Ballance has landed a job with ABC in Hollywood. Our loss, their gain.

That recent slambang treatment of Woody & Virginia Klose by a femme critic was a spite job against the producer. But why make the talent suffer? . . . Music maestro Wayne King will be on shortly with a full network show, coast to coast.

Carmelita Pope, the lovely channel 9 star, is infanticipating shortly. It’ll be the second for Carmy and hubby Chuck Ballinger, the writer. . . . Jacqueline James, the blonde chirper of WGN-TV’s “Challenge,” has requested the press to list her that way instead of Jackie. She claims there’s too much confusion with singer Jackie Van of the same show.

Russ Davis looking tanned & fit after his vacation. . . . Don’t miss next week’s issue—it’ll have complete convention coverage and voting tally sheets. You’ll get a kick out of our features on next week’s TV stars—Robert Taft and Dwight Eisenhower.

(Stations reserve the right to change above listings without notice)
"THE BIG PAYOFF" is a new quiz show that appears supremely hell-bent to prove that the American male has an IQ equal to that of his long-tailed ancestors. What’s more alarming, “Payoff” is proving it before a gleeful audience of chiefly feminine viewers who are beginning to doubt the theory of male supremacy.

Fundamentally, “Payoff” presents the chance for Average Joe to play dragon-slayer for “the favorite lady in my life.” The many-fanged monster is a series of thorny questions, the answers to which generally are more useless than the questions themselves. When Average Joe explains to emcee Randy Merriman the reasons why his favorite gal deserves the jack pot prize (a trip to Paris and a mink coat), Joe’s Lady Fair appears on stage to oversee the jousting match.

The pressure is terrific. Like Horatio at the bridge he stands, boldly matching wits with an almanac while Lady Fair sits in the “wishing chair” fondling a 49 cent box of Fab. The aroma of French parfums on Rue de la Paix and the snuggling luxury of mink stings the Lady’s imagination.

Then the question. “What famous left handed baseball pitcher played ball for the Yankees, Athletics and Red Sox?" asks the purveyor of useless information.

The Lady squirms as Galahad answers. “Lefty Grove?” he guesses wrongly.

The bubble bursts. Another Average Joe has been added to the growing list of thwarted Galahads. (About one in forty wins the jackpot for fair damsel).

The chief distraction for these modern-day knight errants is a bevy of beautiful women who model the gifts that Lady Fair won’t receive because of her escort’s ignorance. Their presence (which amounts to an easy-on-the-eye commercial) makes the idea of recalling a left handed baseball chucker at the time utterly ridiculous.

Heading the female window dressing on “The Big Payoff” is an ex-Miss America (1945), Bess Myerson. Her duty on behalf of the Feminine League For Upsetting Male Supremacy is not only to distract, but to put pressure to bear. After a few twirls modeling a mink, Lady Fair drools and Galahad chokes up. His mind spins and his efficiency rating plongs to zero.

Charter member Myerson, slick as cellophane, together with emcee Merriman, smooth as plastic, are “tailor-made” newcomers to TV. Since “Payoff” took over for the “Comedy Hour,” they appear no less than six times a week, smiling and happy (maybe), but always ready to put Average Joe through the mill.

Now let’s see. At the rate of some 25 down-trodden males a week, that’s 1300 a year, it won’t be long before the women of the U.S. take over.

—Thomas O’Malley

The Big Payoff is seen on channel 5 Monday thru Friday at 2:00 and on Sunday at 7:00.
TV SPORTSCAST:

Joe Triner Burns, Steve Ellis Put On Carpet . . .

PUDGY Steve Ellis, the hustling CBS-TV sports commentator and fight manager, appeared before Joe Triner's irate State Athletic Commission last week. Ellis was summoned to answer charges of deliberately sending Chico Vejar, who was reportedly ailing for several days, against Chuck Davey on May 7th. . . . Davey handily pummeled Vejar and they were rematched June 25th. . . . At the hearing, Ellis soberly answered Triner's heated questions under oath and denied any responsibility in the welfare of his fighter.

I seriously question that Ellis would send a sick fighter into the ring and I suspect the whole thing was concocted to generate more interest in the rematch at the expense of the State Commission. . . . Having breakfast with Vejar the Tuesday before the fight, I noted Vejar was despondent and nervous. However, for a guy who was reportedly sick at the time, Chico gingerly drank a huge glass of orange juice and devoured his cereal, fried eggs and toast with real gusto.

We breakfasted at the Hotel Sherman where Vejar and Davey were appearing as guests on the Tommy Bartlett Show. Bartlett offered to formally introduce Vejar to Davey who was seated in the far corner of the dining room. Chico dissent... "I don't want to be near him. I don't even want to see him," retorted Chico, menacingly clenching his fists. "All I want to do is to blast him good tomorrow night." . . . Now I ask, Mr. Triner, can a man with such blazing spirit and healthy appetite be a sick man?

Cuffnotes: TV is destined to cure one of the Calumet Region's (Indiana) biggest sports headaches. For years local high schools have performed before overflowing crowds. WJOB, the local AM station, has reportedly filed for a TV station. . . . In Chicago, C.E.T., a television dealer, is giving a free round trip, all-expense trip for the All-Star Baseball game in Philadelphia, July 8 to each purchaser of a new TV set. If you're interested phone MOhawk 4-4100.

Mailbag: "... Will be out of town on the day of Forecast's golf tournament. . . . Best wishes."—Sid Caesar, NBC-TV. "... Sorry to say I must recuperate under doctor's orders. Best of luck on Forecast's Golf Tournament."—Red Skelton.

DEFENDS TITLE, JULY 7TH . . .
Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan (left) sipping milk after a strenuous work-out. The Havana Hawk is training for his next title defense at Philadelphia, July 7th against an unbeaten youngster, Gil Turner, who will be seeking his 30th consecutive victory. . . . No TV plans have been announced as yet, but it is suspected at this writing that the bout may be detoured for exclusive use by Theatre-TV.
OF ALL participation sports, golf undoubtedly harbors the greatest number of duffers. And for good reason. Golfing requires a degree of natural skill, coordination, calm nerves and a sound pair of legs.

Because of its technical nature, almost all amateurs either grip the club improperly, slice the ball after attempting to “murder” it, or employ the wrong clubs at one time or other during an 18-hole round. However, a duffer who refuses to pay nominal fees for lessons can improve his game by merely turning his TV set to channel 4, WBKB, Tuesdays, 7:30 p.m. and watching “Pars, Birdies and Eagles.”

This informal show is emceed by TV Forecast’s Celebri-TEE Champion, Danny O’Neil and two high powered professionals, Johnny Revolta and Jackson Bradley. O’Neil selects letters expressing profound problems of golf. Then Revolta and Bradley alternate in instructive lectures on how to cure these specific flaws. In elaborating, Revolta and Bradley demonstrate the swing, or stance, or approach as the writer might be doing it. Then, having shown how not to do it, they again demonstrate the proper method.

Letters selected for the show are those which will benefit the greatest number of viewers. Questions most frequently range from “How can I correct my slice?” to “How can I sink 15 foot putts?” One irate woman from Chicago wrote: “How come my husband gets up at six o’clock in the morning on Saturdays and Sundays to play golf but on weekdays I have to set off an A-bomb to get the bum out of bed for work! What has golf got that I haven’t?”
and eagles

Improve Your Game Via TV

Jackson Bradley, a husky, handsome pro with a smooth delivery has replaced Jimmy Hines on “Pars, Birdies and Eagles,” after the latter left for Europe on a tournament tour. “We consider each question as if it came from a high handicap shooter,” said Bradley, “and our answers are designed to be understood even by the newest member of our golfing group.”

Covering everything from shanking and topping to stance, Revolta and Bradley consume about twenty minutes for technical instruction. Golf rules are given during the closing minutes by two amateur commentators who sponsor the show. These sponsors, Joe Jemsek and Charlie Nash, also deliver their own commercials with a noticeable lack of gracefulness.

Joe Jemsek owns and operates St. Andrews and Coghill Golf Clubs. During his brief appearance on the show, Jemsek hurriedly recites his lines, nervously pockets his left hand and anxiously cues Charlie Nash in shy, retreating tones . . . Charlie Nash, on the other hand, warms up to the camera almost immediately. A forceful, outspoken, and domineering personality, Nash sells the fine merits of his Mission Hills Club with less awkwardness. He grips a club to offset his nervousness and menacingly waves it about while delivering his commercial in a staccato and strident voice.

In addition to O’Neil, Bradley, Revolta, Jemsek and Nash, high priced pros appear as guests. Scheduled for guest shots this summer are Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Patty Berg and Jack Burke. The show is directed by Jimmy Holmes.

Silhouettes of the West

by Roy Starkey

Gunsmoke curled lazily upward from the barrel of a gun. Above it, a 12 year old boy gazed down at the body of the man he had just shot. This was the first of many who were destined to fall before his blazing guns.

Who was he? Where did he come from, this spindly-legged boy whose very name brought terror to all who heard it mentioned on the western frontiers?

William Bonney was born in New York November 23, 1859. When he was 4, his folks moved to Coffeeville, Kansas, where his dad was killed in a gunfight. Later, Mrs. Bonney and Billy moved to Silver City, Colorado.

When Billy was 8 years, he started to school, and they say he was very smart and learned fast. The trouble was, Billy seemed to learn the wrong things out of school. He hung around saloons and hero-worshipped local badmen. When he was 12, and considering himself pretty tough, he killed a gambler by shooting him in the back.

From then on, even tho he was just a boy, Billy became like a hunted animal—wandering from town to town, killing, gambling, rustling and fighting. Up to now, no particular name had been given him. But one summer night in 1876, some of his owlhoe friends were sitting around their campfire talking, when one remarked that Billy had killed another man that day.

One badman, not hearing what was said, asked for a repeat, and was told: “I’m talking about the kid, Billy . . . the kid . . . he killed another man today.”

That’s the way he got the name that stayed with him till he died.

Most of his victims were shot in the back. There were 21 notches on his gun—21 men in bothill cemeteries before a fearless sheriff named Pat Garrett ended the killing career on July 14, 1881 in Lincoln, New Mexico of the West’s most notorious outlaw—Billy the Kid.

“Silhouettes of the West” is seen on channel 4 at 5:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

Uncle Herbie

Boys and girls, here’s a friendly little fellow you probably know very well—Scampy the Clown who performs on “Super Circus” every Sunday. Well, his real name is Bardie Patton, and he lives in Glenview, Ill.

He’s a Boy Scout, and already has earned some merit badges, including a merit badge in Pioneering, which no sissy can get. Bardie also likes to take part in athletics, photography and model airplanes. Look at his picture. Do you know that is a ping pong ball on his nose, all painted up with finger nail polish?
